Grapes in a Cold Region.

The Cultivation and Ripening of Grapes for the North. The question has been often asked, which is the best method of cultivating grapes, and how shall we protect them in the fall from early frosts? Many plans have been suggested, and some have succeeded, but with great pains and expense to the cultivator. The following plan is one which I have often tried, and found it to be very successful:

1st. Prepare the ground by spading to the depth of from twelve to fifteen inches around the surface, into a bed, so as to carry off the surface-water freely.

2d. Use no manure of any description whatever, as it only serves to force the vines into an undue growth, and leaves the wood in the fall tender and unripe.—A moderate healthy growth is preferable.

3d. Procure stout, smooth poles, about nine feet long, bore a hole near the top of each one, set them in the ground where you wish to plant your vines at a depth sufficient to have them stand firm, and from six to nine feet apart, but not less than six.

4th. Select strong two-year old plants from some reliable establishment, plant one vine by each pole, head it back to two eyes of last summer's growth, mulch to prevent summer evaporation.

5th. After the vine starts sufficiently, train it around the pole in the form of a corkscrew, take off all the laterals above one eye; to prevent the fruit buds from bursting. When winter sets in let the vine down to the bottom of the pole, and cover it with straw or any other loose litter.

6th. Early in the spring, when the severe weather is over, uncover the vine and take off the heel of the last year's laterals close to the fruit bud, head back to within one foot of the top of the pole, attend to the laterals through summer the same as last year.

7th. In autumn, before the first frost comes, take a small cord or wire, make it fast to the top of the vine, and pass it through the hole in the top of the pole, make the end of the cord fast to a small stake, look out for the first frost—that destroys the vine of its foliage and sours the grapes. When there is danger of a frost, loosen the cord and the vine will fall gently to the bottom of the pole then cover it with straw or hay for the night.

The next morning, at sun rise, take off the hay or straw, and raise the vine to the top of the pole and fasten with cord—when you have your vines, with its foliage and fruit, uninjured, while the vines that have been unprotected will be stripped of both.

Those who follow the above directions will find themselves amply repaid by having good, edible grapes, Samuel Matthews, Du Page County, Feb. 16, 1856.—Prairie

Hungarian Grass Seed. To the Editors of the N. Y. Evening Post. Gentlemen: I find that your very excellent and cheap paper is popular among the bone and sinew of the country, and with a view of adding a little to its extension among our farmers, I will present its readers with samples of two articles which are now in great request. It is better to start on a small scale than to purchase a spurious article, as many will do who are wholly unacquainted with new articles. There are already in the market two or three articles claiming to be "Hungarian Grass Seed." The genuine article does not require that sweet handle to it. A sample of four ounces will be sent for the use of an ordinary farm for the first season, and will also afford an opportunity for testing its value for stock, both green and dry. Four ounces of sugarcane seed, which is of Georgia growth and perfect, is all-sufficient to plant half an acre for sugar and molasses. For fodder and for soiling this plant is, perhaps, without a parallel.

Samples of four ounces of each or of either of these seeds will be sent by mail on application to any Post office in the United States or Canada. Enclose stamps or coin for postage at the rate of six cents per ounce over 3,000 miles, or to Canada; and address to "Rural Empire Club, Macedon Centre, Wayne County, New York."

Preserving Butter.—A patent has been secured by W. Clark, of London, for the following method of preserving butter.—The butter is first well beaten in the usual manner after churning, then placed between linen cloths and submitted to severe pressure for whey and water. It is now completely enveloped or covered with clean white paper, which is coated on both sides with a preparation of the white of eggs, in which 15 grains of salt is used for each egg. This prepared paper is first dried, then heated before a fire, or with a hot iron, just prior to wrapping it around the butter. It is stated that butter may be kept perfectly sweet without any salt for two months, when thus treated if placed in a cool dry cellar. The submitting of the butter to pressure, as described is a good plan, and one which we recommend to all our farmers. They can easily practice it with a small cheese-press.

Tree Planting.—In planting trees, dig large holes—twice the circumference required by the extended roots, and twice the depth necessary. Fill up with rich earth, and short, well rotted manure, press down carefully with the foot, and stake firmly, and to prevent it from rubbing the tree, wrap some cloth around the stake, and tie closely. Mulch with grass, hay, shavings, sawdust, old tan, or loose stones. Water once a week in the hot season, unless rain should supply the necessary moisture. Most evergreens thrive best on clayey soils.

Grafting Old Fruit Trees.—J. Fanning M. D. Oxford Co., Me., recommends cutting the limbs of old trees, and covering the ends with grafting wax, the Spring before the grafts are to be set. The stock will send out many young shoots, all of which are to be left until the following year. Then select the strongest shoots, and as many of them as are wanted to form a well-shaped top, and put the cuttings into these by splice grafting, using the usual precautions to exclude the air. Remove about three quarters of the other sprouts, and the following year prune the rest away. In this way, he says, he has had great success.—American Agriculturist.

Spraying Black Locust Seed.—J. P. Lane. Pour boiling water on them, let them stand until cold, and then plant.—American Agriculturist.

THE RESTORATIVE OF PROF. O. J. WOOD for restoring hair perfectly and permanently has never yet had a rival, volume after volume might be given from all parts of the world, and from the most intelligent, to prove that it is a perfect Restorative, but read the circular and you cannot doubt; read also the following:

THE HAIR.—People have for centuries been afflicted with bald heads, and the only remedy, heretofore known, has been those abominable wigs. By a recent discovery of Professor Wood, these articles are being fast dispensed with, but a great many persons, still patronize them, because they have been so often imposed upon by Hair Tonics of different kinds. To all such persons, we earnestly make the request, that they will try once again, for in Wood's Restorative there is no such thing as a fall. We know of no lady who was bald, but every one will admit that a beautiful head of hair, either in man or woman, is an object much to be desired, and there are no means that should be left untried to obtain such a consideration.—[Woman's Advocate, Philadelphia.]

Collection, Ohio, Nov. 17, 1856. O. J. WOOD & CO.—Gents: As I have been engaged in selling your Hair Restorative the last season for one of your local agents, (R. M. Hackinson,) and having experienced the beneficial effects of it myself, I would like to obtain an agency for the State of Ohio, or some State in the West, should you wish to make such an arrangement, as I am convinced there is nothing equal to it in the United States for restoring hair. I have been engaged in the Drug business for several years, and have sold various preparations for the hair, but have found nothing that restores the sensitive organs or invigorates the scalp as well as yours; being fully convinced that your Restorative is what you represent it to be, I would like to engage the sale of it, for I am satisfied it must sell. Yours, truly, S. T. STOCKMAN.

Wayland, Mass., Feb. 5, 1857. PROF. O. J. WOOD & CO.—Gents: It being realized the good effects of your Hair Restorative I wish to state that, finding my hair growing thin, as well as gray, I was induced from what I read and heard, to try the article prepared by you, to promote its growth and change its color as it was in youth, both of which it has effected completely. In the operation I have used nearly three bottles. Yours, &c., JAMES FRANCIS.

O. J. WOOD & CO., Proprietors, 312 Broadway, New York, (in the great N. Y. Wire Railing Establishment,) and 114 Market St., St. Louis, Mo. All good druggists. December 22, 1858:1q

THE GREAT WEEKLY PAPER!

PREPARED BY DR. SANFORD, IS A GREAT scientific Medical Discovery, and is daily working cures almost to a great degree. It acts as if by magic, even the first dose acting, being seldom more than one bottle is required to cure any kind of Liver Complaint, from the worst jaundice or Dyspepsia to a common headache, all of which are the result of a Diseased Liver.

The Liver is one of the principal regulators of the human body, and when it performs its functions well, the powers of the system are fully developed. The stomach is almost entirely dependent on the healthy action of the Liver for the proper performance of its functions. When the stomach is at fault, the bowels are at fault, and the whole system suffers in consequence of this derangement, having ceased to do its duty. For the diseases of this organ one of the proprietors has made it his study in a practice of more than twenty years, to find some remedy wherewith to counteract many derangements to which it is liable.

To prove that this remedy is at last found, any person troubled with the Liver Complaint in any of its forms, has but to try a bottle, and conviction is certain. A compound has been... One bottle taken for formed by dissolving female obstruction, regains and extracting moves the cause of the that part which solidifies, and makes a the for the active principle of the medicine. There is no exaggeration in these statements, they are plain sober facts that we can give evidence to prove, while all who use it are giving their unanimous testimony in its favor.

"Among the hundreds of Liver Remedies now offered to the public, there are none we can so fully recommend as Dr. Sanford's Invigorator, so generally known through the Union. This preparation is truly a Liver Invigorator, producing the most happy results on all those who use it. Almost innumerable certificates have been given of the great virtue of this medicine by those of the highest standing in society, and we know it to be the best preparation now before the public.—Hudson County Democrat.
